Mr Codognotto,

1. Please try not to jump to silly conclusions, 2. Since you stopped being active in the 4Bs we get NO info, minutes at all. Why would we want you to quit? 3. I did not know the connection between you and Baker. I thought Chris introduced you to MRAA. Is it really isn't important is it? 4. If the 4Bs had worked with head office there would be

I have received the latest lot of of MRAA material. I presume it is for the general information of the 4Bs, since there were no instructions included. However, the message about the blank form you sent me is loud and clear. I am to put in writing that 'I will no longer be an official of the MRAA', yes? And how thoughtful of you to include a copy of the one filled in by Dave Presidente, just in case I didn't figure it out by myself! Okay, I get the hint, you want me out of the 4Bs. Just one question: Why??

no cash flow problems

I thought that I'd had a positive input into the 4Bs since I joined up. I undertook to redraft the graphics for our 4Bs flyers, our horizontal sheets, our get well cards and our updated 4Bs logo. While I was operative, I took minutes at every meeting, typed them up and copied them for distribution, I photocopied above and beyond the call of duty, I organised a chocolate drive to raise money to boost the 4Bs running account when we desperately needed it. I don't want a medal, but I don't think I deserve a kick in the teeth, either.

This isn't even close to fair

I can live with being given the boot. It's happened to better people than me. But I think that at least I deserve a few sentences of explanation. Your rudeness has knocked me speechless (congratulations, not many people ever manage that). I know that I am practically impossible to catch by phone, and that you have more important things to do with your phone time, but you didn't even take the time to scribble down a few words to tell me why. For all I know, you feel you've got a perfectly good reason. Well, I think I'm entitled to hear it. Let me guess, you just can't bring yourself to forgive me for being Brian Baker's 4B prospect back in '90, can you?

I will copy the last of the material to go to other 4Bs because I promised you that I would do that - I assume since my services are no longer required, there will be no more - but I will not sign anything for your convenience, you rude little object, until you can muster the common decency to put pen to paper and tell me why I'm getting the flick. Good grief, and you wonder why people get peeved with the way you conduct MRAA business!

Sam 'Handle' Michaelson

I find your bitterness extraordinary. You have no idea how MRAA Admin works, nor do you attempt to find out, yet you pontificate as above. Take a look at the system before you rubbish it or me.
